World Day for Animals in Laboratories was instituted in 1979 and has been a catalyst for the movement to end the suffering of animals in laboratories around the world and their replacement with advanced scientific non-animal techniques.

On April 26th, the animal freedom movement and the wider public are coming together outside the notorious puppy factory MBR Acres to remember the countless animals killed inside laboratories in the UK and across the world. If you attend just one event this year, make sure it is World Day for Animals in Laboratories at MBR Acres in Cambridgeshire! The protest starts at 12pm @ MBR Acres, Huntingdon PE28 2DT

This will be the largest event outside of MBR in recent memory; not just a protest against their violence, but a celebration of our movement and our power.

Start planning and book your coaches and minibuses; this is a moment for our movement to come together and rise, and all of us are needed.

If you can't attend the march we hope you can demonstrate outside your local labs, or shops with links to vivisection. Tag #wdail2025 in your social media posts so we get to see you in action. Let's make it the biggest range of demonstrations against animal testing held in one day!
